BOY DROWNED IN THE MIAMI CANAL .- A lad Boy Drowned in this Miani Canal.—A lad about nine years of age, named James Williams, while fishing, yesterday afternoon, in company with some of his fellows, in the Miami Canal, east of Broadway, fell into the water and was drowned. Some persons ran to his assistance and soon succeeded in recovering the body, which they vainly endeavored to resuscitate, after which it was removed to the residence of his parents, on Calvert-street.

Suits Against the County Commissioners.

Joseph Blundell brought suit in the Court of Common Pleas, yesterday, against the County Commissioners to set aside the contract for wrought-iron work on the new jail, lately awarded to Handy & Bro.

Constable Joseph Durrell brought an action before Justice Rowekamp, yesterday, to recover fees in case of State vs. Patrick Towley, who was committed to jail by Justice Bell for non-payment of fine and costs and afterward discharged by the Commissioners upon payment of $6.

A MAN SEVERELY INJURED BY A FALL .- / A MAN SEVERELY INJURIED BY A FALL.—A laborer named Alexander Sheppard, while at work on a new building on Race-street, near Cedar, yesterday afternoon, fell from the second-story, through the first, into the cellar. His right arm and several ribs were broken by the secident, while his head received some severe contusions, although, we believe, none of them amounted to a fracture. When taken in however, he was whell. When taken up, however, he was wholly unconscious, and, for some time, it was thought he had been killed. Medical assistance was immediately called, and, with some difficulty, he was sufficiently restored to be removed to his residence, on Clay-street, near Allison.

THE RECENT STABBING AFFRAY IN THE THIRTEENTH WARD.—William Hunter, ames Hyde and John W. Johnson, who were arrested a few days ago upon a charge of stabbing with intent to kill some negroes whom they metal or near the corner of Sixth and Culvert, were before Judge Lowe yesterday morning for examination. The persons were more or less severely injured—David Scott, John Bailey and Mrs. Brashears, but none of them dangerously. Two of the parties were at the Court-room, the third being unable to appear; and after hearing the case Hyde and Johnson were discharged, while Hunter, was committed in default of bail in the sum of $1,000 to await trial before the next term of the Court of Common Pleas. the Court of Common Pleas.

ARREST OF THE SUPPOSED HOMICIDE OF ARREST OF THE SUPPOSED HOMICIDE OF PROF. CRAWLEY.—A week ago last Thursday night a man named Nathan Hessle, who at that time resided at No. 40 North-street, overheard a conversation between Dennis Collins and John-Donovan which led him to believe that one of them was the homicide of Prof. Crawley. Collins resided in the same-house with him, and thinking he had fallen into a den of thieves, immediately made arrangements to remove to some more

After changing his residence, on Monday last, he sought Officer Dryer, and gave him an account of the conversation he had overheard, at the same time stating the impression he had received from it. He says that Collins spoke of a Protestant or Professor, he is not certain which, and said, "he had sent one to heli." Donovan then asked "why he had thrown the kmife away?" when the first speaker replied: "Do you think I'm d—d fool enough to keep that knife about me!" In a subsequent conversation with Hessle in regard to instruments of defense, Collins gave his opinion in favor of the knife, which might be easily disposed of and never failed, while a pistol might not go off, and made a noise which would attract attention.

Upon this ground Collins and Donovan were arrested night before last by Officer Dryer and lodged in the Ninth-street Stationhouse, the officer having been informed that they were about to leave the city, and fearing, if he waited further developments, they would escape altogether.

After the arrest was made Collins admitted ject of the murder of Prof. Crawley, while D. denied ever having visited C.'s house.

Yesterday afternoon Heesle went to the Police Court and made an affidavit to the effect that he believed Collins and Donovan were implicated in the murder of Professor C. The case will probably come up before Judge Lowe this morning, when, we presume, further facts, if any, in regard to this very mysterious affair will be fully developed.

REGIMENT OF LAZZAROSI.—The United States Deputy Marshals, who are engaged in taking the census, have some strange adventures in the city, a few of which are rather ludicrous. Major Joseph W. Burke, who was appointed in this espacity in the Fourth Ward, went to an Italian boarding-house, on Front-street, between Vine and Race, a day or two ago, in his official capacity, and found the building, which had previously contained at least two hundred lazaroni, entirely deserted in the lower story.

Hoping to have better success in the upper part of the building, he want up stairs, and upon arriving at the top of the flight, much to his astonishment, stumbled over about a dozen monkeys, which instantly began a chattering that gave him some very disagree-dozen monkeys, which instantly began a chattering that gave him some very disagree-able sensations.

No human being, however, could he find until he reached the garret, where he saw a very old, decrepid man with-wrinkled face and whitened locks, who reastonished him with violent gestures and a repetition of the phrase, "Mo axisen- no fight."

The man was at least sixty years of age, and this strange greeting induced the Deputy to make some luquiry into the mysterious disappearance of so many Italians, when he discovered that they had become impressed with the idea that he as about to sulist them if the army, after the style in which they had been freated at home, and had incombently marched in a body to the other side of the river and invaded hentucky.

The building is only large, and is inhabited wholly by organ-schiders, begans and lassaron generally of the worst class, other amount of at least two flundred. Not being thoroughly posted in regard to census taking, which they supposed meant anlisting they decamped, leaving about two dozen monkeys in the charge of the Mothuselah of their number, who would speak he word save "Me sixteen—no fight season."

her Muste-Feather.

A day or two since, a beautiful and accomplished young lady, one of the reigning belies of Louisville, Ky., and a member there of the beau mends, appeared here at the Spencer House with a middle-aged gentleman of German extraction, a well-known music-teacher in that city. They were travelling companions, it was evident; but the extreme affection they manifested for each other indicated a closer relationship than the disparity of their circumstances seemed to admit.

The only daughter, and hairs of relationship.

A Very Remantle Pact Sensational Blope-

The only daughter and heiress of a drug-admit.

The only daughter and beiress of a druggist in Louisville, worth at least half a million, she was possessed of youth, beauty, culture, accomplishment, and the grace, refinement and elegance of mind and manner that render position brilliant and circumstance poetical.

He was a very good-natured and amiable person, but without fortune, a professor of music, by which honorable though not lucrative calling he had supported himself comfortably in the city of his adoption. Without apparent personal attractions, and in his fortieth year, it was hardly to be supposed he could so captivate the fancy or intoxicate the senses of a young and romantic girl as to induce her to see in him the ideal hero of which feminine hearts at eighteen usually dream, until fact and reason arouse them to the practical inexorabilities of life.

But so it was. He had been her music-teacher, and by that mysterious eroticism, which, either from the peculiar elequence of the man or the peculiar weakness of the woman, effects miracles, he won her heart, and made her completely his. Her romance, which ordinarily would have rejected him as her lover, transmuted by a flash of sentiment, rendered him the "marvellous proper man," destined to win and wear her.

If he was poor, so much the better, for she her lover, transmuted by a flash of sentiment, rendered him the "marvellous proper man," destined to win and wear her.

If he was poor, so much the better, for she was rich; if he was not handsome, his heart was good, and that ontweighed all beauty; if his profession was humble, was it not the province of love to lift him to equality with kings? Then, she thought of "Jane Eyre," the noble, suffering and peculiar Jane, and her stern, strange "Rochester," with his withered limbs and sightless orbs—and the heiress was conquered by the woman.

The beloved, petted, spoiled daughter, reared in the midst of luxury, forgot all but him who had filled her soul with a divine emotion, and she placed-her hand in his for guidance through the world.

One morning at early dawn, the fair girl was missing, and a note informed her parents of the step she had taken. They were mortified and grieved, of course; but they had no remedy. The bird had flown, they could not call her back without her mate; and they wished her mateless, or not at all.

The elopement created a sensation in Louisville, and caused as much surprise as indignation among many of the young gallants there who had aspired to her love! But the agony must soon subside: the twain, united as closely as law and priest can make them, are now en route to Europe. To Juno and the destinies that preside over connubial fortune we commit them, with the best wishes that a union thus unwisely perfected may result not unhappily to those who trusted Hymen more than Nature, and followed the upon his intellect and a carry him take him through this world, and carry him safely to the next.

One gentleman, whose language and gestures gave evidence that he had been educated in the worldly sciences and accomplishments, and whose humility clearly proved that he was versed in Divinity, urged men not to rely on their intellect or reason, for if they did they would surely be led astray.

Religion meant submission. A prayer was then offered up for the perverse young man, who agentleman arose and stated that he had preached the Gospel in the East for many years, and, of all the instances of repentance cased by fear of death, he knew but wo persons that had experienced them who had continued in the faith after recovery; and led and had no family. This is the fourth of the best in cases where men die after a repentance which would have been transient, him him that they recovered. God alone could know the destiny of such.

Board of City Improvements.—At the regular semi-weekly session of the Board of City Improvements, yesterday morning, Mr. Gilbert, City Civil Engineer, presented plat and estimates for repairing the sidewalks on Mound-street, from Fifth to Court, and the Clerk was instructed to prepare and transmit to the City Council an ordinance to assess a special tax upon the real estate bounding said improvement.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNTY COMMISSIONESS.
At their regular diurnal session yesterday morning, the County Commissioners passed orders amounting in the aggregate to $100 80, of which $105 90 were paid to Hugh McGlensecy, for lime for new jail; $62 40 to J. Musser, for sand for bridge; and $11 50 to W.B. Smith & Co., for drafting paper for architect. James Gallagher, A. Neighbors, F. Horn, A. Ford and James Lewis were discharged from jail because of inability to pay the fines and costs charged against them. No other business was transacted.

A LITTLE GIBL ALSOST KILLED BY THE FALLING OF A WOOD-FILE.—About six o'clock last evening, a little girl, elevan years of age, daughter of Mrs. Remerke, wille playing with some companions on the corner of his-erry-street and the Mismi Canal, was almost crushed to death by the falling of a pile of wood. Her right leg and left arm were fearfully fractured, and her body so seriously bruised that her recovery is regarded as a bruised that her recovery is regarded as a natter of great doubt.

The defense denies that Connolly fired the shot, and introduced many witnesses to prove his character was good for peace. M. W. Myers was among these witnesses, and was asked, on cross-examination by Mr. Kerr, whether he (Myers) had not furnished a ticket to the prosecuting witness to leave town?

Mr. Myers' indignation became aroused. He denied that he had done what was imputed, and charged Mr. Kerr with wanting to insult him.

COVINGTON NEWS.

Cracure Court.—Mr. Arthur concluded his Cracurt Court.—Mr. Arthur concluded his argument in the Guttridge case, about noon yesterday, and it went to the jury, but up to the hour of adjournment, they had not agreed upon a verdict, and were consequently discharged till this morning, at nine o'clock. Bridget Dunnigan and Bridget McMahon were each sentenced to one year in the penitentiary, for grand larceny, and Jas. H. East was tried for petit larceny, but the jury failed to agree, and were discharged. He will be tried again to-day. No other business was transacted.

Thursday's Tribune says of the New York Money market:

The movements in Money are quite unimportant. More difficulty has been experienced by lenders in placing Call Leans than last week, while commercial Paper has not been so eagerly sought after at the previously low currency, although we can report not change in rates. The accumulation of Capital at this point is becoming oppressive, and no relief is expected until the movement of the crops shall induce more general activity in business. We quote Call Loans at 4650 per cent. Commission-house acceptances, six houghts to run, at 4565 per cent. Single-name jobbers Taper is readily pussed at 5566 per cent.

Land Warrants were thus quoted in New York. Wednesday:

Business Man's Phayer-Meeting.—The principal subject discussed in the business men's prayer-meeting, resterday, was the efficacy of Death-bed Repentance. Although all admitted that it was possible that it might save the sinner from everlasting punishment, yet it had better not be relied on.

Illustrative of this point, an instance was referred to of a young man who had been taken ill, and was, as every one supposed, on his death-bed, at which time he confessed his sins, and became, to all appearance, reconciled to Christ; but, contrary to all expectations, he recovered, and immediately fell into his old channel of life, and he is now "relying upon his intellect and a cold morality" to take him through this world, and carry him safely to the next.

pentance which would have been transient, and they recovered. God alone could know the destiny of such.

He instanced one case of a young man who would not listen to the religious admonitions of his mother, she invited him (the speaker) to pray for his conversion. He did pray; he did not tell God how to do it; he simply asked that it he done in His own way.

Stewart and Webb, Executors of John Walker, w. The Heirs and Devisees of John Walker. Before Judge Hoadley. The plaintifity were appointed as Executors of the will of John Walker, having received the appointment of Trustees under the will to take charge of the brewery establishment on Sycmore-street, for the period of seven years. The time expired on the 21st instant, and they ask for a construction of the will as to their duties. The defendants, in a cross petition filed by them, allege that the executors refuse to deliver the property over, although the time has expired, and they ask for the appointment of a receiver.

The case was argued by Judge Tilden and T. J. Gallagher for efecutors, and by Judge Matthews and R. King on the other side, and was left under advisement.

The State vs. Tr umas Connelly. The defendant stood indicted for the murder (in the second degree) of Henry O. Yost, on the 6th of April. 1857.
It is alleged that, on the evening of the day in question, a party, of whom the defendant was one, entered a coffee-house kept by a brother of decessed. A dispute arose between the party of men and the Yosta in relation to a broken plate. The latter armed themselves with sticks and clubs. The visitors then went outside, and commenced rolling barrels, when Yost (the decessed) went to the door, and, after some words had passed, he
